The recent massacre at Colorado brings to mind the fragility of life. This month's quotes are about life and death. I hope you will find them inspiring; and do remember to always tell your loved ones how much they mean to you each day!

As we grow up, we learn that even the one person that wasn't supposed to ever let us down, probably will. You'll have your heart broken and you'll break others' hearts. You'll fight with your best friend or maybe even fall in love with them, and you'll cry because time is flying by. So take too many pictures, laugh too much, forgive freely, and love like you've never been hurt. Life comes with no guarantees, no time outs, no second chances. You just have to live life to the fullest, tell someone what they mean to you and tell someone off, speak out, dance in the pouring rain, hold someone's hand, comfort a friend, fall asleep watching the sun come up, stay up late, be a flirt, and smile until your face hurts. Don't be afraid to take chances or fall in love and most of all, live in the moment because every second you spend angry or upset is a second of happiness you can never get back

Love is stronger than death even though it can't stop death from happening, but no matter how hard death tries it can't separate people from love. It can't take away our memories either. In the end, life is stronger than death.

Live as if you were to die tomorrow. Learn as if you were to live forever.

—Mahatma Gandhi

The fear of death follows from the fear of life. A man who lives fully is prepared to die at any time.

—Mark Twain

To the well-organized mind, death is but the next great adventure.

—J.K. Rowling, Harry Potter and the Sorcerer's Stone

I found myself thinking about President William McKinley, the third American president to be assassinated. He lived for several days after he was shot, and towards the end, his wife started crying and screaming, "I want to go too! I want to go too!" And with his last measure of strength, McKinley turned to her and spoke his last words: "We are all going."

—John Green, Looking for Alaska

It is a curious thing, the death of a loved one. We all know that our time in this world is limited, and that eventually all of us will end up underneath some sheet, never to wake up. And yet it is always a surprise when it happens to someone we know. It is like walking up the stairs to your bedroom in the dark, and thinking there is one more stair than there is. Your foot falls down, through the air, and there is a sickly moment of dark surprise as you try and readjust the way you thought of things.

—Lemony Snicket, Horse radish: Bitter Truths You Can't Avoid

For death begins with life's first breath. And life begins at touch of death.

—John Oxenham

I am prepared to die, but there is no cause for which I am prepared to kill.

—Mahatma Gandhi
