"There is no greater happiness for a man than approaching a door at the end of a day knowing someone on the other side of that door is waiting for the sound of his footsteps."

—Ronald Reagan

"Marriage is being able to say I love you as well as I am sorry. It is being able to express your anger, what's bothering or upsetting you, and then being able to make up and love again."

—Felicita "Terry" Robinson

"Where there is love, there is life."

—Mahatma Gandhi

"Marriage: Love is the reason. Lifelong friendship is the gift. Kindness is the cause. Til' death do us part is the length."

—Fawn Weaver

"What I believe is that marriage is between a man and a woman, but what I also believe is that we have an obligation to make sure that gays and lesbians have the rights of citizenship that afford them visitations to hospitals, that allow them to be, to transfer property between partners, to make certain that they're not discriminated on the job."

—Barack Obama

"Chains do not hold a marriage together. It is threads, hundreds of tiny threads, which sew people together through the years."

—Simone Signoret

"Coming together is a beginning; keeping together is progress; working together is success."

—Henry Ford

"There is no more lovely, friendly and charming relationship, communion or company than a good marriage."

—Martin Luther

"I very much feel that marriage is a sacrament and that sacrament should extend...to that legal entity of a union between what traditionally in our Western values has been defined as between a man and a woman."

—Bill Frist

"Marriage is the highest state of friendship. If happy, it lessens our cares by dividing them, at the same time that it doubles our pleasures my mutual participation."

—Samuel Richardson

“Almost no one is foolish enough to imagine that he automatically deserves great success in any field of activity; yet almost everyone believes that he automatically deserves success in marriage.”

—Sydney J. Harris

“The first to apologize is the bravest. The first to forgive is the strongest. The first to forget is the happiest.”

—Unknown

“It is a full time job being honest one moment at a time, remembering to love, to honor to respect. It is a practice, a discipline, worthy of every moment.”

—Jasmine Guy

“Let us now set forth one of the fundamental truths about marriage: the wife is in charge.”

—Bill Cosby

“Keep your eyes wide open before marriage, half shut afterwards.”

—Benjamin Franklin

“I have learned that only two things are necessary to keep one’s wife happy. First, let her think she’s having her own way. And second, let her have it.”

—Lyndon B. Johnson

“Let the wife make the husband glad to come home, and let him make her sorry to see him leave.”

--Martin Luther

“Happy is the man who finds a true friend, and far happier is he who finds that true friend in his wife.”

—Franz Schubert

“A successful marriage requires falling in love many times, always with the same person.”

—Unknown

“The real act of marriage takes place in the heart, not in the ballroom or church or synagogue. It’s a choice you make—not just on your wedding day, but over and over again—and that choice is reflected in the way you treat your husband or wife.”

—Barbara de Angelis

“A happy marriage is the union of two good forgivers.”

—Ruth Bell Graham

“Once we figured out that we could not change each other, we became free to celebrate ourselves as we are.”

--H. Dean Rutherford (in a letter to his wife on their 59th wedding anniversary)
