“He is his own best friend, and takes delight in privacy whereas the man of no virtue or ability is his own worst enemy and is afraid of solitude. “

—Aristotle

“I must learn to love the fool in me the one who feels too much, talks too much, takes too many chances, wins sometimes and loses often, lacks self-control, loves and hates, hurts and gets hurt, promises and breaks promises, laughs and cries.”

—Theodore Isaac Rubin

“We do not have to be successful or have to be pleasing to others to have a healthy sense of self-esteem and worth. That worth has freely and conclusively been given to us by God. Failure and/or the disapproval of others can't take it away! Therefore, we can conclude, it would be nice to be approved by my parents (or whomever), but if they don't approve of me, I'm still loved and accepted by God.”

—Robert S. McGee - His book, The Search for Significance

The “You do not need to be loved, not at the cost of yourself. The single relationship that is truly central and crucial in a life is the relationship to the self. Of all the people you will know in a lifetime, you are the only one you will never lose.”

—Jo Courdert

“Maybe some women aren't meant to be tamed. Maybe they just need to run free till they find someone just as wild to run with them. “

—Sex in the City

“I never found a companion that was so companionable as solitude. “

—Henry David Thoreau

“I don't need a man to rectify my existence. The most profound relationship we'll ever have is the one with ourselves.”

—Shirley MacLaine

“You have brains in your head. You have feet in your shoes. You can steer yourself in any direction you choose. You're on your own. And you know what you know. You are the guy who'll decide where to go.”

—Dr. Seuss

“What a lovely surprise to finally discover how unlonely being alone can be.”

—Ellen Burstyn

“I like being single. I'm always there when I need me.”

—Art Leo

“A man is born alone and dies alone; and he experiences the good and bad consequences of his karma alone; and he goes alone to hell or the Supreme abode.”

—Chanakya

“It is only poverty that makes celibacy contemptible. A single woman of good fortune is always respectable.”

—Jane Austen

“I lived in solitude in the country and noticed how the monotony of a quiet life stimulates the creative mind.”

—Albert Einstein

“But while I breathe Heaven's air and Heaven looks down on me, And smiles at my best meanings, I remain Mistress of mine own self and mine own soul.”

—Alfred, Lord Tennyson
