This month's quotes are all about "MARRIAGE." I hope you will find these quotes inspirational.

"There is no greater happiness for a man than approaching a door at the end of a day knowing someone on the other side of that door is waiting for the sound of his footsteps."

—Ronald Reagan

"Marriage is being able to say I love you as well as I am sorry. It is being able to express your anger, what's bothering or upsetting you, and then being able to make up and love again."

—Felicita "Terry" Robinson

"Where there is love, there is life."

—Mahatma Gandhi

"Marriage: Love is the reason. Lifelong friendship is the gift. Kindness is the cause. Til' death do us part is the length."

—Fawn Weaver

"A happy marriage is the union of two good forgivers."

—Ruth Bell Graham

"Once we figured out that we could not change each other, we became free to celebrate ourselves as we are."

—H. Dean Rutherford (in a letter to his wife on their 59th Wedding Anniversary)

“The real act of marriage takes place in the heart, not in the ballroom or church or synagogue. It’s a choice you make—not just on your wedding day, but over and over again—and that choice is reflected in the way you treat your husband or wife.”

—Barbara de Angelis

“The first to apologize is the bravest. The first to forgive is the strongest. The first to forget is the happiest.”

—Unknown

“Marriage is the highest state of friendship. If happy, it lessens our cares by dividing them, at the same time that it doubles our pleasures my mutual participation.”

—Samuel Richardson

“It is a full time job being honest one moment at a time, remembering to love, to honor to respect. It is a practice, a discipline, worthy of every moment.”

—Jasmine Guy

“Let us now set forth one of the fundamental truths about marriage: the wife is in charge.”

—Bill Cosby

“Let the wife make the husband glad to come home, and let him make her sorry to see him leave.”

—Martin Luther

“There is no more lovely, friendly and charming relationship, communion or company than a good marriage.”

—Martin Luther

“I very much feel that marriage is a sacrament and that sacrament should extend...to that legal entity of a union between what traditionally in our Western values has been defined as between a man and a woman.”

—Bill Frist

“Chains do not hold a marriage together. It is threads, hundreds of tiny threads, which sew people together through the years.”

—Simone Signoret

“What I believe is that marriage is between a man and a woman, but what I also believe is that we have an obligation to make sure that gays and lesbians have the rights of citizenship that afford them visitations to hospitals, that allow them to be, to transfer property between partners, to make certain that they’re not discriminated on the job.”

—Barack Obama

“How can a person deal with anxiety? You might try what one fellow did. He worried so much that he decided to hire someone to do his worrying for him. He found a man who agreed to be his hired worrier for a salary of $200,000 per year. After the man accepted the job, his first question to his boss was, “Where are you going to get $200,000 per year?” To which the man responded, “That’s your worry.”

— Max Lucado

“Coming together is a beginning; keeping together is progress; working together is success.”

—Henry Ford

“I believe marriage is between a man and a woman. I am not in favor of gay marriage. But when you start playing around with constitutions, just to prohibit somebody who cares about another person, it just seems to me that’s not what America’s about. Usually, our constitutions expand liberties, they don’t contract them.”

—Barack Obama

“Keep your eyes wide open before marriage, half shut afterwards.”

—Benjamin Franklin

“A successful marriage requires falling in love many times, always with the same person.”

—Unknown
